EX CURIA
INTERNATIONAL

KNOWLEDGE PARTNERS EX CURIA

Ex Curia International is born out of its founder's desire to provide a global platform to aficionados in the International Dispute Resolution sphere. ECI was created with the intent to unify diverse opinions which exist in the international ADR community.

An individual's opinions are guided by one's personal experiences, circumstances, ethnicity and background. Our founder is of the ideology to allow these voices to cumulate at one place, which in turn promotes one to make a conscious decision for oneself. ECI intends to aid the process of picking up best practices to be applied in one's own jurisdiction.

The challenge was now to convert this academic pursuit into a groundbreaking reality. It really became a question of one person trying to change the entire world. For constant inspiration and support, our young founder welded together some of the biggest names in the field of international dispute resolution to form ECI's vigorous board of advisors. To fuel the initiative forward, she fused together a dynamic and robust team of students and young practitioners, hailing from countries seven seas apart.

Despite time differences, language barriers, and cultural differences, their passion for dispute resolution brought them together to create an International Dispute Resolution Forum, namely Ex Curia International.
