

INTERNATIONAL VIRTUAL SYMPOSIUM ON

THE FUTURE OF BIOETHICS IN THE POST-PANDEMIC ERA

SEPTEMBER 09-10, 2022

CONCEPT NOTE

Questions in Bioethics include but are not limited to the end-of-life debate, assisted reproductive technologies, procreation and abortion, organ transplants, drug trials, public health, environmental issues, and population control. Androcentric approach in Bioethics promotes the notion that a man has the power, experience, and logic to determine worldly matters. Feminist Bioethics dismisses this notion and advocates for a gender-neutral approach towards the discipline of Bioethics.

The pandemic has taught us that the androcentric narration disregards the factors like illiteracy, gender, race, social status and economic background of the patient, and class-hierarchy in the society. This symposium seeks to revisit what went wrong in the health care structures and legal frameworks across the world, how long it has been so, and why did we continue to dwell in such dilapidated systems.

OBJECTIVES

- Create a platform to bring together scholars and philosophers across the world to share their ideas and perceptions on how Bioethics needs to be revisited and reviewed in the post-pandemic era.
 - Enable knowledge-sharing with respect to different healthcare systems and legal structures, and how different countries conceive their public policies, and determine the driving forces behind their philosophies.
 - Encourage dialogues between attendees and speakers to create brainstorming sessions.
